It's All About the Networking

Business Networking is a really valuable way to expand your knowledge, learn from the success of others, attain new clients and tell others about your business. There is a wealth of knowledge out in the world which you can access simply by talking to other professionals.

Building connections will provide you with an invaluable opportunity to best prepare for your career goals and business contacts. And you never know when your skills and resources can prove to be beneficial to others in your network. Networking is a mutually beneficial process.

An easy way to expand your network is to build on the relationships you already have. A good network is really just a circle of friends. It's a great boost to your self-esteem as well. You know people; they ask for your opinions and ideas; and other people want to meet you and your contacts – it's something to consider.

In every social and business situation, you should remember 3 things: Make sure . . .

- People know who you are
- People know what services or skills you provide, and
- People know how to contact you, and finally,
- Make sure you listen for the same 3 things when you interact with people!

There is someone out there who has a skill or service you may need or have an interest in. Be sure to get their contact information too.

If done right, meeting more people leads to more business and career opportunities, which leads to meeting more people and more business and so on . . .

And that's what Amador County Women's Network hopes to achieve.
